Executive Summary

The success of an institution in achieving its mission and objectives can be measured in a number of ways. An important measurement of outcomes is found through monitoring the success of recent graduates. Through the yearly graduate follow-up survey conducted by the Office of Institutional Research and Planning, the College obtains information regarding employment status, salary levels, and attendance at transfer institutions of its graduates. The Graduate Follow-up Report on the Class of 2004 provides a common core of information about the Onondaga Community College graduates.

This survey was administered to the 2003-2004 graduates during November 2004 and early 2005. Questionnaires were mailed to 894 graduates and a total of 357 (39.9%) responded.

Onondaga Community College
Class of 2004 Graduate Follow-up Report

Introduction

Each year the Office of Institutional Research and Planning conducts a follow-up survey of graduates in order to identify how experiences at OCC have contributed to their success. This report compares the Class of 2004 with the graduates of the four previous classes of 2003, 2002, 2001 and 2000. These comparisons seek to identify demographic profiles in education and work-related trends.

The findings for the Class of 2004 are based on 357 (39.9%) respondents from the total sample of 894 graduates receiving degrees or certificates, whose graduation dates were August 2003, December 2003 or May 2004. A packet was mailed to all graduates containing a cover letter, survey, and a self-addressed, postage-paid return envelope. Approximately six weeks after the first mailing a second survey was mailed to all non-respondents.

This report is organized into three major sections. Each part provides information summaries with five-year comparison data. The first section displays information trends about degree awards, ethnic background, gender and reasons for earning a college degree. The length of time it takes to earn a degree/certificate and evaluation of college services were gathered for the Class of 2004.

The second section displays employment status for current and previous four-year graduate respondents. A list of employers and occupations of current graduates is provided in the appendix.

The third section provides information about students who transfer to other educational institutions. Transfer institutions, student status and type of institution attended are also listed in the appendix.

In addition, a list of colleges and major fields of study for each curriculum; summary data for Employment and Transfer by Degree and Curriculum for the Class of 2004 and the Graduate Follow-Up Study Survey are in the appendix.

Section I: Student Profile

Graduates by Degree Type

Of the 905 degrees granted to the Class of 2004, 387(42.8%) were in Career programs, while 518 (57.2%) degrees were in Transfer programs. As Table 1.1 shows, 38.5% of the degrees granted were AAS degrees, 29.7% were AA degrees, 27.5% were AS degrees and the rest were Certificates.

The percentage of students receiving AAS degrees which has increased steadily from 2000-2003 took a 7.6% decline in 2004. On the other hand, the percentage of students receiving degrees in AA and AS continues to rise.

Educational Goals

In order to better understand how our graduates feel about their experiences at OCC, the survey asked them to identify initial and final educational goals, and OCC's effectiveness in helping to accomplish these goals.

As shown in Table 1.2, the initial educational goal for majority (64.4%) of the 2004 graduates was to attain an Associate degree from OCC. This was followed by 10.2% who plan to continue their education up to the bachelor's degree level after graduation from OCC. About 7.0% of the graduates came to OCC for transfer purposes only.

About 31.9% (Table 1.2) of the graduates indicated that their educational goals changed while enrolled at OCC. Of those whose educational goals changed, 34.6% indicated that Bachelor's degree was their final educational goal and 30.2% said Associate degree from OCC.

On the question of whether the graduates accomplished the educational goals they set for themselves at OCC, about 81.1% said they accomplished their goals fully. In addition, about 17.5% of them said they accomplished their educational partially.

Section II: Employment Report

Employment Status

This section provides five-year employment summaries from previous graduate surveys. As Table 2.1 shows, 48.7% of the 2004 graduate respondents were employed full-time, a decrease from 53.0% in the previous year. About 20.2% of graduates were employed part-time, this has been on a steady decline with the 2002 graduating class. Also, 33.5% of the 2004 graduates indicated that they work and study at the same time about 2.0% decrease from the previous year.

For a complete list of employers, job title and mean salaries for each program see Appendix A.

However, the significance of these factors declined about 6% and 12.6% for finishing their degree/certificate and specific program of study respectively from the previous year.

However as Table 2.3 shows, the percentage of graduates working full-time in Onondaga County decreased from 88.2% in 2003 to 82.2% in 2004.

The average income of graduates employed has been in the high $20,000 since 2000. About half of graduates employed full-time earned more than $25,000 in 2004 about $1,500 lower than those from 2003.

Section III: Transfer Report

Educational Status

This section provides 2004 and four-year data on transfer information. Nearly half of the graduate respondents (45.1%) indicated that they were attending a college, university, or training program. Of those transferring to another institution, 82.6% (Table 3.1) were full-time students and 17.4% indicated attending part-time. Over eighty percent (85.0%) of the graduates who continued their education indicated that they expected to earn a Bachelor's Degree. The majority (80.4%) reported transferring without difficulty.

More than half of the students (57.6%) were continuing their education in a field of study highly related to their OCC degree program, while another 32.1% indicated their field was only slightly related to their OCC degree (Figure 3.1).

For a complete list of transfer colleges and major field of study for each program see Appendix B.
