CREATING A FOUNDATION FOR SUCCESS.
To raise, administer and invest funds for the benefit of OCC and its students.

Since its founding in 1980, the OCC Foundation has raised vital dollars from the public and private sector to support various programs and projects at Onondaga Community College. Over $1.2 million of those dollars have supported the OCC Foundation Scholarship Program, assisting more than 3,000 OCC students in achieving their goals through higher education.

The OCC Foundation is operated by an impressive volunteer, 35-member Board of Directors composed of business, cultural and community leaders from throughout Central New York.

The Foundation is a not-for-profit charitable organization. Donations to the Foundation are fully tax deductible, to the extent provided for by law. If you desire more information on the Foundation or would like to learn more about how you can make a personal contribution or establish a scholarship, contact the Foundation Office by calling (315) 498-6060 or online at www.sunyocc.edu.

To view a listing of OCC Foundation Scholarships, please refer to the Financial Aid section of the College catalog or visit the College website at www.sunyocc.edu, following the scholarship links.
The Fall 2010 semester is underway with more than 12,000 students enrolled in nearly 50 degree programs, non-credit courses, workforce training and certificate programs as well as online classes. Double-digit increases in the number of students enrolling at Onondaga – an increase of 12% in 2009 and nearly 65% over the past decade – reflect a burgeoning demand for the high quality, reasonably priced higher education alternative that community colleges have long provided. OCC has seen exponential enrollment growth in those academic programs that are closely aligned with the needs of employers, such as a new Line Mechanic/Utility Worker certificate program that was developed through an innovative partnership with National Grid. Mindful of busy lives and hectic schedules, OCC offers flexible scheduling as well as options for online learning, accelerated programs, evening/weekend, and concurrent enrollment. These alternative delivery methods are so popular that they now comprise more than 40% the College’s total enrollment.

Demand for non-credit programs that provide industry-recognized credentials and customized workforce training is also on the rise, as employers and employees work to maintain a competitive edge in the global marketplace. Programs such as LEAN Six Sigma for Healthcare, the Center for Business Information Technologies (CBIT), and the Small Business Development Center are providing individuals with access to the targeted knowledge and skills that they need. And these programs are providing our region with the well-trained workforce that is essential for economic vitality.

As public funding for higher education continues to decline, private investment grows increasingly critical to OCC’s ability to respond to community needs. Fortunately, hundreds of employers and individuals recognize the enormous benefit of investing in Onondaga Community College, as is evidenced by the remarkable community response to the Foundation’s capital campaign, Reach Beyond, which achieved its $6 million goal in 2009 and is well on its way to reaching its “super goal” of an additional $1.5 million dedicated exclusively to student scholarships.

The strong support we receive from our partners and benefactors ensures that the College will continue to be responsive to the evolving needs of citizens and employers in Central New York. We extend our deepest gratitude to each of you for contributing to the success of Onondaga Community College and its students.

Sincerely,

Debbie L. Sydow, Ph.D.

Support for scholarships
As the economy recovers from its most recent crisis, concerns about the cost of attending college continue to rise. More people are recognizing community colleges as a first choice for a quality education. Enrollment at Onondaga reached an all-time high of more than 12,000 students, and the demand for financial aid has reached record heights along with it.

For the past 28 years, the OCC Foundation has helped thousands of students ease the financial burden of a college education. Nearly 1,000 students graduated from Onondaga in May 2009, and many of them were able to attend the College thanks to scholarships and gifts. Without the help of scholarship dollars, the door to a college education would remain closed for many students.

Onondaga invites donors to contribute to the OCC general scholarship fund to keep the dream of a college education within reach for prospective students. Gifts of $25, $50, $100 or more can make the difference in helping a student remain on track for success. All contributions are greatly appreciated.

For more information, please contact Onondaga Community College’s Office of Institutional Advancement at (315) 498-6060.

OCC Alumni Council
Onondaga Community College’s Alumni Association was organized by members of OCC’s first graduating class in 1964. Since then, nearly 40,000 graduates have joined the growing ranks of OCC alumni. During 2008, the Alumni Association became the Onondaga Community College Alumni Council, a standing committee of the Onondaga Community College Foundation, Inc.

Working with the Foundation, the Alumni Council helps fund scholarships; enhances and promotes relationships between alumni and the College; promotes and fosters relationships among and between students and alumni; and acts as an “official” source of information regarding alumni. It’s a resource of alumni opinions and beliefs for the Foundation, the College and all of its constituencies.

The Alumni Council, made up of dedicated alumni from diverse backgrounds, is led by a chair who is also a member of the Foundation Board of Directors.

I truly appreciate your financial support. During this time of change, bailouts, and increasing costs of education, scholarships become a vital part of offsetting costs. I am eternally grateful to the Foundation for being selected to receive this scholarship.”

The Onondaga Community College Foundation announced that its $6 million fundraising goal for its Capital Campaign was reached. The campaign – Reach Beyond: the Campaign for Onondaga Community College – consists of four components and was first launched publicly in November, 2008.

One of the primary components of the Capital Campaign is the Presidential Scholars Program. When fully funded, the Presidential Scholars Program will provide full Onondaga Community College tuition to all high school seniors in Onondaga County who graduate in the top 10-20 percent of their class.

As increasing numbers of students and local families look to Onondaga Community College for higher education, the Campaign Leadership Committee announced a new “Super Goal” of $7.5 million. This adds $1.5 million in additional funds to the original goal of $6 million. These funds will be dedicated specifically to funding student scholarships through the Presidential Scholars Program.

“Most jobs now require at least a two-year college degree, and that trend will continue into the foreseeable future. All local citizens, regardless of financial circumstances, must have access to higher education if we are to advance the local economy,” said Onondaga Community College President Debbie L. Sydow, Ph.D. “Even as we celebrate this important fundraising milestone, additional state cuts to higher education are being proposed. That’s the reason it is imperative that we continue our fundraising efforts to ensure that our community’s high school seniors who want to go to college, can go to college.”

The Reach Beyond Capital Campaign is only the second campaign in the College’s history and the first in nearly a decade. In addition to the Presidential Scholars Fund, the Campaign supports an expanded Children’s Learning Center, an innovation and training fund for faculty and staff development, and the new SRC Arena which will open in late 2011.

“Education is absolutely fundamental to the growth and prosperity of Central New York,” said Robert U. Roberts, president and CEO of SRC and campaign co-chair. “It is essential that the next generation of leaders has the vital resources they need to be successful. I am proud to co-chair this worthwhile initiative that will benefit tomorrow’s college graduates who are most likely to stay in Central New York to live, work, raise families, and help to grow our community’s future.” SRC has contributed $1,525,000 to the campaign for student scholarships.
“Thank you so much for your support. This scholarship has been so helpful in meeting my tuition bills. While here at OCC I have learned that every dollar counts and that one of the most stressful parts of college is the financial aspect...tuition, transportation, books, etc. Thank you for lightening my burden.”

Terry L. Brown, Chairman and CEO of O’Brien and Gere, understands the importance of Onondaga’s mission and views Onondaga as a community asset positioned to help train the community’s workforce and his own employees, many of whom are Onondaga alumni contributing to the company’s success. Brown said at a recent OCC Foundation reception held at the company headquarters in Dewitt, “Having gone up to campus and spent some time there, I am just blown away by the facilities, quality of education and quality of staff.”

“I will never forget my experience at your wonderful school and the caring people who helped me along the way. Thank you!!! A community college is what it implies – a community – and more than ever at OCC. As I stated in an earlier e-mail, it would not have been plausible without substantial help from a caring, compassionate, and loving staff. Every single person on campus has contributed in some unselfish way toward my success as a student and an individual. Above all, you have encouraged me every step of the way.”

More and more friends of OCC are making a difference for OCC students through planned giving. Those who have chosen to honor the College with a planned gift or through their estate plans are invited to join the prestigious OCC Legacy Society.

A very special tradition of the College and the Foundation is the annual retiree reception during Syracuse Jazz Fest. This is a time of renewing old friendships, visiting with former co-workers and marveling at the latest progress on campus.

As Onondaga nears its 50th anniversary, the stories and memories of its employees and alumni are special indeed, and reminiscing together with OCC Foundation Executive Director Tom Burton are all former faculty and professors emeriti (L-R): Norma E. Foody, Janet R. Harris and Nancy K. McCarty.

Legacy Pathways LAUNCHED

The OCC Foundation proudly presented its first issue of Legacy Pathways, the new Legacy Society newsletter, designed to provide information on the importance of estate planning and planned giving in assisting future generations of OCC students in achieving their dreams of higher education and a path for a brighter tomorrow.

The Foundation’s prestigious Legacy Society represents a group of dedicated individuals who have made an important commitment to Onondaga Community College students of today and tomorrow. The Legacy Society honors those who have made a commitment to Onondaga Community College’s future through a bequest intention, charitable gift annuity, charitable trust, life insurance gift or other estate planning techniques.

Future issues of Legacy Pathways will profile Legacy Society members and share valuable information when making decisions about personal and family estate management.

“Among the most significant and most transformative gifts that Onondaga Community College will ever receive are planned, or deferred gifts as they are known. These visionary gifts, from those who believe in Onondaga’s capacity to help students explore, discover and transform, will have enormous impact on the College and future students.

The OCC Legacy Society is the College’s way of acknowledging these special gifts. Through their commitment to Onondaga’s future, Legacy Society members honor the College’s role in contributing to a high quality of life, a well-educated citizenry, and a vital economy throughout Central New York. These very special donors help guarantee that quality higher education will be available and accessible for all Central New Yorkers, empowering future generations of students to explore and discover their inherent potential and to pursue their academic dreams.”

GENEROUSY ADDS UP TO SUCCESS.

For many, future professions aren’t always decided on in the prime of one’s immature youth. However, Onondaga’s Jane Tanner, a mathematics professor at Onondaga Community College, knew sitting in her kindergarten classroom that her path would one day lead her to become a teacher.

“My math teacher inspired me,” Tanner said. “She just really turned me onto math in fifth and sixth grade. I wish I could have talked to her and personally told her, ‘Because of you, this is what I did with my life.’”

Prior to coming to Onondaga, the Baldwinsville, N.Y., native had teaching opportunities in the Baldwinsville and Liverpool school districts before getting a phone call from former OCC Vice President of Academic and Student Services Helen Etherington in 1982.

“She took a chance and hired me,” Tanner said. “She has been a dear woman to me.”

Tanner’s decorated 28-year career at Onondaga has paved the way for a most impressive resume filled with awards and honors such as the “Who’s Who Among America’s Teachers” in 2004 and 2005; the OCC Board of Trustee Award, highlighting her services to the College and work with the Museum of Science and Technology (MOST); the Paragon Honor which showcased her accomplishments in mentoring new online faculty; and a most prestigious national recognition – the National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development (NISOD) Award.

This may come as no surprise to those that know Jane Tanner, but the same dedication and commitment she brings to the classroom is complemented by her generosity to organizations she supports. Tanner is identified as one of the top consecutive donors to the OCC Foundation for more than 15 years and has contributed consistently to support student scholarships such as the memorial scholarship named in memory of former colleague Patricia Baggett; the Helen and John Etherington Endowed Scholarship; and the OCC Faculty Award for Academic Excellence.

“There are good students here that are financially strapped and need help,” Tanner said. “You have to give them a chance, it might save their lives.” She continues, “If students can’t attend due to financial reasons, we aren’t helping out the institution. If I can help someone else out, then that’s the way to do it. I do it because it’s easy to do.”

For Tanner, seeing the end result is extremely rewarding. “As a teacher, it’s seeing that light bulb go on. If that light bulb doesn’t go on, you’re not doing something right. It’s all worthwhile at the end.”

WHY SHOULD YOU GIVE?

As the second largest undergraduate institution in Central New York, Onondaga enrolls more students from every Central New York school district than any other college or university and enrolls as many as 60% of college-bound high school seniors from local school districts. Onondaga offers nearly 50 different degree and certificate programs, customized training for business and industry, and a full range of personal enrichment courses.

Taxpayer support represents less than 50% of the College’s revenue each year. Additional resources are necessary for Onondaga to continue this service to the community and carry out its mission of contributing to a high quality of life, a well-educated citizenry, and a vital regional economy:

- Onondaga is an integral part of the community – we are of, by, and for the residents of this region
- Onondaga builds the local workforce – the students we train come from and typically remain in Central New York
- Onondaga is a quality alternative to high-cost undergraduate education
- Support for Onondaga ensures outreach to under-served populations and expanded access to postsecondary education
- Onondaga Community College expands the circle of economical and personal opportunity through:
  - Job training
  - Enhanced learning potential
  - Convenient and affordable programs
  - Lifelong learning
- Onondaga keeps social capital in the local community
- Onondaga is one of the region’s most promising and agile social, education, and cultural assets
  - Stimulating the effective use of emerging technologies
  - Adapting to changes in the structure of workforce needs
  - Building audiences for the arts and humanities
  - Addressing diversity and celebrating our ethnic and racial differences
